

Eye on the World

October 10, 2026

This compilation of material for “Eye on the World” is presented as a service to the Churches of God. The views stated in the material are those of the writers or sources quoted by the writers, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the members of the Church of God Big Sandy. The following articles were posted at churchofgodbigandy.com for the weekend of Oct. 10, 2026.

Compiled by Dave Havir

Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take your stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by Victor Davis Hanson titled “Remembering the False Gloom and Doom of the 1992 Elections – and the Upcoming Midterms” was posted at amgreatness.com on Sept. 29, 2026. Following is the article.

In 1992, Bill Clinton won the presidential election partly on the basis of his campaign’s false accusation that George H. W. Bush had overseen “the worst economic performance since the Great Depression.” Or so claimed Clinton’s running mate Al Gore.

James Carville, chief campaign adviser to Clinton/Gore, amplified that message with the constant refrain: “It’s the economy, stupid.”

That strategy worked for three reasons.

- First, third-party candidate Ross Perot siphoned off nearly 19 percent of the vote.

Most of his supporters would otherwise likely have gone to Bush. Perot allowed Clinton to win with a mere 43 percent of the popular vote, in part by echoing the false narrative of a crushing Bush recession.

- Second, the brilliant Bush campaign strategist Lee Atwater, who had virtually destroyed the Dukakis campaign in 1988—remember the tank ad, the Boston Harbor ad, and the Willie Horton ad?—had died in 1991 at the age of 40 from a brain tumor.

Atwater's canny but hardball 1988 tactics had turned off establishment Republicans. So in 1992, Republicans reverted to the notion of losing nobly rather than winning ugly and resumed unilaterally playing by the Marquess of Queensberry rules. The result of Democratic demagoguery was that the sober and competent elder Bush was branded a heartless elitist who had wrecked the economy and defended Kuwait only for "blood for oil." And without Atwater, the Bush team utterly failed to refute such caricatures and counterattack.

- Third, and most important, the anemic Bush reelection campaign never refuted the Clinton-Gore economic hysteria.

That "recession" deception had drowned out the historic foreign policy achievements of Bush's four years, from the successful policies that followed the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 to the decisive 1991 Gulf War.

Despite overwrought claims about a recession or even a new Great Depression, in truth, the recession had ended in March 1991. In fact, final GDP growth for 1992 was a robust 3.52 percent. That was hardly a recessionary indicator. Indeed, the election-year growth proved even stronger than in Clinton's first year of governance in 1993.

While unemployment was still high at 7.5 percent, the 1992 stock market nonetheless grew by 7.6 percent. And the 1992 inflation rate had stayed moderate at 2.9 percent.

In other words, the economy had already begun to recover from the 1990–91 recession, which—to reiterate—had officially ended 20 months before the 1992 election.

One cause—eerily now familiar—of the earlier 1990–91 downturn was that oil prices had initially doubled after the 1990 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and the U.S. military response. But prices collapsed as soon as Operation Desert Storm began, despite the later torching of the Kuwaiti oil fields and continued uncertainty in the Gulf. Yet by the November 1992 election, oil prices had long been back to pre-invasion levels.

In short, the Democrats' charge that 1992 saw the worst recession in 60 years was absurd. (The 1973–75 and 1981–82 recessions were far worse than the 1990–91 recession.)

Fast forward to the present.

- The economy today is far better than in 1992. But Democrats' successful 1992 demagoguery should remind Republicans that the perception of the economy peddled by campaign rhetoric can often decide elections more than the reality does.

Take the just-released 2025 poverty rate. It hit an all-time low of 10.2 percent. Child poverty also fell to a historic low. Such amazing news refutes wild leftist charges that uncovering vast welfare fraud, deporting thousands of illegal aliens, and cutting 400,000 federal jobs would spike poverty. In fact, those actions more likely contributed to reducing poverty, as did an astounding lowest violent crime rate in some 70 years.

Median household income also hit a record high of $87,460. That is the highest median household income in the world, dwarfing all other large industrial nations that are not petro-states or tax havens. The same holds true for our GDP per capita—which, incidentally, was already over $34,000 higher than in Canada.

New business reports show that this past August manufacturing achieved its largest monthly increase since 2022. And service-sector growth jumped to its highest level since 2021. New orders for metals, machinery, computers, appliances, communications—in truth, almost everything—continue to rise every month, especially and most recently in August.

Despite the Iran war and its global petroleum interruptions, the Atlanta Federal Reserve now predicts that third-quarter GDP growth will finish at a blistering 5 percent. The Dow and the S&P have grown by a strong 8.1 percent and a staggering 13.5 percent, respectively, in 2026.

Take away the climb in gas prices from a January 2026 average of $2.81 a gallon to $4.50, and the inflation rate was only 2.5 percent—below the 2025 yearly average of 2.7 percent—and Wall Street estimates put the annual rate at around 2.2 percent once the Iran war ends and a huge influx of oil hits the global market. The United States is now the greatest producer of oil and the greatest producer and exporter of natural gas in history—and is still increasing output.

August unemployment was a low 4.1 percent, while 162,000 new jobs were created in that month alone. Consumer spending remains strong.

The U.S. economy is entering a boom cycle. Its growth ensures that it remains the largest in the world and continues to outpace all competitors.

Many of the dire predictions at the millennium about the supposedly superior collectivist paradigm of the European Union—or the inevitable rise of a China of 1.4 billion people—surpassing the United States simply did not come true.

The EU has about 100 million more people than the United States. China's population is four times larger than America's. Yet both have fallen further behind the United States in terms of economic production.

Indeed, the U.S. economy is roughly $10 trillion larger than either China's or the EU's. Far from some predictions of a decade ago that within 10 years China would overtake the United States, the opposite has occurred. America's nominal GDP of $18.8 trillion in 2016 soared to $32.4 trillion in 2026—as the American share of global GDP increased to 26 percent. In contrast, the EU's share of global GDP actually shrank, and China's still stayed well behind the United States.

In key categories such as digital media, software, AI, bioengineering, and space technology, American companies remain the world's largest and most successful. They usually dominate global top-ten rankings, with eight or nine U.S. corporations among the top slots.

- If the Republicans broadcast this positive news about the economy, it will in turn complement Trump's unambiguous foreign policy successes, which are largely underappreciated, if not unknown, among the public. But they remain impressive.
- The rebooting of NATO by getting its members to rearm and take up their fair share of collective defense.
- The acquisition of new treaties ensuring an American military presence in the Greenland to monitor the contested Arctic.
- The radical transformation of much of the Western Hemisphere from leftist and anti-American nations into pro-American, tough-on-crime, free-market countries.
- The expulsion of the Chinese bad actors from the Panama Canal and the extradition of the anti-American communist Maduro from Venezuela.
- The restoration of Pentagon recruitment and the change in Pentagon procurement to emphasize quantity of weaponry along with quality.
- The verdict on the unpopular war against the Iranian theocracy is still out. But the idea that the last seven months of on-again, off-again strikes and negotiations amount, in terms of human and material costs, to a "forever war" is absurd and a lie.

While all our soldiers' deaths are tragic, the conduct of the war against the terrorist powerhouse of the Middle East had deliberately been waged to limit the loss of American lives. Indeed, the average daily fatality rate due to accidents in all branches of the military during the seven months of the Iran conflict is some eleven times greater than the number of those killed fighting Iran.

The roughly $40 billion cost of the war so far, while substantial, amounts to about 25% of the conservative estimates of recently discovered welfare corruption and fraud in California alone—involving theft of Medi-Cal, unemployment insurance, in-home services, and hospice funding.

The war will be judged by historians, fairly or not, on whether it delays for years or, if not, ends Iran's quest for nuclear weapons altogether, and on whether it so weakens the theocracy that it permanently loses its terrorist leverage over the Middle East—if not eventually implodes from popular resistance. If such a regime collapse should follow the conflict, the Middle East miasma of the last 70 years would largely end, marking the most profound American achievement abroad since the fall of the Berlin Wall.

So much is at stake.

Nevertheless, the Republicans have not yet developed a strategy to inform the public that the economy is sound and improving—and will likely soon take off, after the Iran conflict is over, oil becomes plentiful again, and tax cuts, foreign investment, deregulation, and productivity gains from AI take their full effect.

Most importantly, Republicans have still not articulated why the “affordability” issue persists. Under Joe Biden, average prices were nearly 21 percent higher than when he took office, with a yearly average increase of more than 5 percent.

The Trump administration nearly halved that annual rate in 2025. It will reduce Biden’s yearly inflation rate substantially again in 2026.

But neither Trump nor any other president could or would wish by design to engineer radical deflation to restore prices to the pre-Biden levels of 2020 during Trump’s last year in office.

Trump’s first-term total four-year inflation rate was under 8 percent, averaging about 2 percent per year—far less than half the yearly inflation average of the subsequent Biden years.

In 2025, wages still climbed higher than the rate of inflation. But it would require a damaging recession to undo Biden’s 20 percent rise in prices. And worse still, the cost of staples such as food, shelter, vehicles, fuel, and insurance rose nearly 30 percent over Biden’s four years.

Nor have Republicans made the easy case that the midterms are no longer merely a matter of liberal versus conservative, Democrat versus Republican, or even progressives versus MAGA.

- Rather, November 3 represents normality and common sense pitted against an unrecognizable “Democratic” revolutionary party that is driven by Islamist-sympathizing socialist zealots who are not fond of the United States as it has existed for 250 years.
- They are not shy about planning to remake America along the lines of, at best, radical European socialism and, at worst, something resembling Cuba.

Needless to say, if they get their way, even the most lurid false liberal claims about our current alleged economic problems will pale by comparison.

An article by Miranda Devine titled “The Far-Left Is Pushing Its Most Nonsensical Anti-Trump Hoax Yet. It Will Only Hurt Democrats in the Midterms” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 7, 2026.

The Democrats' latest anti-Trump hoax is their most nonsensical, and yet of course, their media handmaidens pretend to swallow it hook, line and sinker. The claim is that President Trump stood up at his rally in Nebraska on Monday and invited Iran to bomb LA and San Diego.

- He actually said the opposite, as anyone honest with ears and a functioning brain knows.

He was talking about how a temporary rise in gas prices was “a small price to pay” for stopping Iran from developing nuclear missiles that could annihilate the cities of our allies in Europe and the Middle East, and might one day even strike American cities.

“They can take out a city,” he said in one of his trademark rambling weaves.

“Let them take out Los Angeles; let them take out San Diego. This is a very small price to pay.”

The ridiculous lie parroted by Democrat operatives is a sign that they may be starting to worry that the “blue tsunami” at the midterms that they’ve been prematurely celebrating isn’t inevitable, after all.

Why else would they beclown themselves with absurd hyperbole, unless it were for the greater good of ensuring the rest of Trump’s presidency is hobbled by his party losing both the House and the Senate in spectacular fashion.

“ ‘Take out’ Los Angeles and San Diego? Trump is beyond irresponsible,” screeched The Guardian.

“Trump draws backlash after he suggests Iran could ‘take out’ Los Angeles or San Diego,” sniffed CNN.

“White House defends Trump comment to let Iran ‘take out’ LA and San Diego” was the BBC’s take after the White House called out the media for their faux -naïveté.

They would rather be seen as foolish.

Faux outrage

Democrat politicians whipped themselves into faux outrage in a cynical ploy to scare their Trump-deranged constituents to the polls.

“Let’s be clear,” said Governor Gullible Gavin.

“The president is advocating for an attack on 10+ million U.S. residents in two of America’s largest cities. This is not normal . . . He is deranged and dangerous.”

The Californian governor went on to say he was directing the state “to actively monitor the situation in the event that foreign actors interpret the president’s remarks as an invitation to target California.”

Seriously.

Kamala Harris, the wannabe 2028 candidate, sent out missives to her donors: “Californians’ lives are not expendable in Donald Trump’s unhinged, reckless war in Iran. This is yet another callous comment from the tyrant in the White House.”

Karen Bass, the beleaguered mayor of Los Angeles who is struggling to keep her job, said Trump’s statements “are dangerous and could potentially compromise our safety.”

Socialist Sen. Bernie Sanders huffed that “the annihilation of two major American cities . . . is not a ‘small price to pay’ for Trump’s illegal war.”

Sen. Adam “Shifty” Schiff declared with a straight face: “If it means attacks on two major American cities in the process, he is not troubled by the cost.”

Oh, come on. How dumb do they think voters are?

It’s the same stretch Democrats are using to try to blame Trump for the “Cornell 7” alleged gang rape saga.

New York’s Kathy Hochul appointed state AG and Trump nemesis Letitia James as “special counsel” to weaponize the sordid case into a political cudgel to wield against Bruce Blakeman in her own gubernatorial race.

It’s the same playbook they use time and again when they selectively quote Trump to pretend he said something he didn’t, like telling people to “inject bleach,” or that he called dead American soldiers “suckers and losers,” or that he threatened a “bloodbath” if he lost the 2024 election.

Joe Biden used a fake quote to falsely claim Trump called neo-Nazis at Charlottesville “very fine people.”

All false, but Dems have to feed fresh meat to crazed Trump-haters who are so brainwashed, they will believe anything.

‘Confident’ Dems?

Are these lies the sign of a confident, optimistic party soaring toward an epic victory on Nov. 3?

Not likely, no matter what the pollsters and the Cook Political Report soothsayers say.

Cook this week is predicting Democrats could scoop up Senate seats in Texas, Alaska, South Carolina, Iowa, Ohio and even Kansas, giving them potentially 54 senators and netting a further 47 House seats for a 35-seat majority.

Pundits point to the fact that Trump is having to fly to Texas to save Ken Paxton and to South Carolina to save Lindsey Graham's sister Darline as evidence that Republicans are on the ropes.

Who knows what will happen almost four weeks out, but Democrats have backed themselves into a corner on "affordability" — which sure takes some chutzpah since it was Biden who presided over the inflation that made everything 20% more expensive.

Yes, gas prices are up across the country, but in deep green California they're a good $2 higher because that's the Democrat idea of "affordability" — making driving so expensive you get out of your car and walk.

Meanwhile, positive economic indicators, a sharper message from Republicans, a newly energized Trump, resilient candidates in key races and floods of super-PAC cash have quietly changed the Republican mood the past week from gloomy to mildly hopeful.

And the message Trump has started giving at every rally strikes a chord at a time of international turmoil: "America does not belong to those who hate it. America belongs to those who love it."

Just look at the riots in France this week, where socialists have united with an unassimilated underclass of welfare-dependent Muslim migrants and their descendants around their bloodlust for power and mutual hatred for the country that has given them everything.

France is a warning for Americans of what lies ahead if we go back to left-wing policies that never work: open borders, migrants who hate us, choking off energy resources in the name of climate alarm, socializing medicine, dismantling law and order, and reimposing all the woke social prescriptions. It's a recipe for bankruptcy, misery and ultimately even civil war.

However the midterms turn out, one thing is certain: Democrats will overreach over the next two years, no matter what, because they're so blinded by Trump hatred, they can't think straight. It's why Trump is president today.

They will mistake their midterm victory for a 2028 endorsement of their crazy policies and divisive games.

If Abdul El-Sayed wins in Michigan and James Talarico in Texas, they will mistake that for a green light to run AOC as president and maybe Hasan Piker as her VP, or even Kamala again.

Bring on Brat Summer II. It will end in tears for all the right people.

An article by Staff titled “Trump Administration Litigation Tracker” was posted at lawfaremedia.org on Oct. 6, 2026. Following are excerpts of the report.

Lawfare’s Trump Administration Litigation Tracker project includes four trackers that follow legal challenges to the actions from the Trump administration.

1. Lawfare Litigation Tracker
2. Alien Enemies Act Proclamation: State of Play
3. Government Non-Compliance in Habeas Corpus Cases Tracker
4. Domestic Deployments Tracker

The Lawfare Litigation Tracker Includes:

- 358 active cases challenging Trump administration actions (this number considers a suit filed in district court and appeals that arise from the original suit as one case)
- 37 suits by the Trump administration challenging state or local laws
- 19 Supreme Court stays or orders to vacate lower court orders
- 2 Supreme Court affirmation of a lower court order that was against the administration
- 24 suits where judges ruled for the federal government in a summary judgement or by dismissing a suit
- 16 suits where judges ruled against federal government in a summary judgement or permanent injunction
- 7 criminal prosecutions by the Department of Justice

The tracker is updated by Anna Hickey with the support of Nicole Anselmo, Caroline Cornett, Vishnu Kannan, Zoe Kern, Matt Salavitch, Cayleigh Soderholm, and Niharika Vattikonda.

For real-time updates on the latest filings, follow @trumplitigation.bots.law on Bluesky, curated by Anna Hickey and Tyler McBrien and published in collaboration with the Free Law Project.

An article by Natalie O'Neill titled "Trans Athletes Have 'Stolen' Nearly 2,300 Gold Medals From Women and Girls in the US: Report" was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

Transgender athletes have stripped women and girls of nearly 2,300 gold medals and more than $500,000 in prize money over the past four decades, according to an analysis from a conservative think tank.

Athletes competing in sports events that don't match their birth sex have bumped biological women out of championship spots 2,293 times since the mid-1980s, according to the evangelical-leaning public policy nonprofit, Concerned Women for America.

"Biological men have distinct advantages over biological women. This reality not only puts women in harm's way, but it eliminates opportunities for biological women to earn a living and win competitions," Penny Nance, CEO and President, Concerned Women for America LAC said in a press release.

"How many more women and girls will be subjected to an uneven playing field? It's time to put an end to this inherent unfairness and protect women's sports."

The group also found that trans athletes, who were born "male," have "stolen" $501,498 in prize money from women and girls in professional sports. For the report, the think tank analyzed data from a HeCheated.org, a volunteer-run online database that documents instances of trans women athletes participating in female sports events.

In total, it reportedly found they have competed in more than 14,301 female sporting events, including amateur and professional.

Concerned Women for America called on Congress to pass the Protection of Women and Girls in Sports Act, which would ban transgender women athletes from playing on female sports teams at schools across the country.

The legislation narrowly passed the House in January 2025, but stalled in the Senate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee held a hearing, "Standing Up for Women in Sports: Ensuring Opportunity, Fairness and Safety for Female Athletes," to discuss the topic on Wednesday.

The debate about trans athletes competing in women's sports stirred up controversy in July when Sophie Cunningham, of the WNBA's Indiana Fever, proclaimed that women "shouldn't have to go against biological men" on the court.

“I got a lot of negative feedback about me hating trans. And I’m like, ‘I never once said that,’” Cunningham told ESPN in an interview.

“I think that I am here to extend love. But I also think with that love is truth, being honest. And I want to protect young girls in a locker room, or young girls in sport who shouldn’t have to go against biological men,” she said.

High school long jumper AB Hernandez also sparked outrage in May after the trans teen, who was born male, dominated multiple girls track and field events at a California regional event.

Outside the track meet at Yorba Linda High School, demonstrators gathered for a “Save Girls’ Sports” rally led by former NCAA athlete Sophia Lorey.

One protester angrily accused California Gov. Gavin Newsom of abandoning female athletes, shouting that “girls are being threatened.”

An article by Armstrong Williams titled “A Rebuttal to Juan Williams on Justice Clarence Thomas” was posted at townhall.com on Sept. 29, 2026. Following is the article.

Juan Williams calls Justice Clarence Thomas’ place in history tragic. His argument rests on two sweeping claims: that Thomas is at the heart of a historic decline in public trust in the Supreme Court, and that he has damaged trust in Black conservatives as a source of ideas about race. Those are serious accusations. They deserve more than confident assertion. They deserve evidence, careful reasoning and the same respect for individual judgment that Williams should expect for himself.

Thomas is one of the most respected, trusted and consistent members of the court. His majority opinions and dissents are essential reading because they reveal a justice who takes the Constitution seriously and explains his reasoning with unusual clarity. A reader may disagree with his conclusions. But disagreement does not establish that his service is tragic or that he has betrayed anyone.

Williams’ criticism repeatedly makes Thomas’ race central to the verdict. He describes Thomas as the most powerful black Republican in national politics, then judges his work by what it supposedly means for Black conservatives and racial debate. That is racial essentialism, and it is a form of racism. It assumes that a Black justice carries a particular obligation to think, vote or speak in a way that satisfies others. It treats his identity as a political assignment.

Thomas should be judged, as every justice should, on the merit of his reasoning and his fidelity to the Constitution, not by his race or gender. The Constitution does not require black justices to represent a single political outlook. Nor does it make a justice's legitimacy depend on whether commentators approve of the consequences of his jurisprudence. Thomas is an individual with his own intellect, convictions and experience. He is not a stand-in for every black American, every conservative or every person who has confronted racial discrimination.

The claim that Thomas is responsible for declining public trust in the court also demands scrutiny. Public confidence is shaped by many forces: the court's decisions, political campaigns against it, the behavior of elected officials, the way legal disputes are covered, and the public's broader distrust of institutions. To place Thomas "at the heart" of that decline is not an explanation. It is a conclusion that needs to be demonstrated.

And if the charge is that Thomas has damaged black conservatives as a source of ideas, Williams must explain why a disagreement over ideas becomes an injury to a group. Black Americans are not a monolith. They hold varied beliefs about government, race, religion, law and personal responsibility. Treating one Black conservative's views as a threat to the credibility of all Black conservatives repeats the very assumption that people should be evaluated through racial categories.

Thomas' critics are free to challenge his opinions. They can argue that a particular ruling misreads the Constitution, overlooks precedent or reaches the wrong result. That is how serious debate works. But criticism becomes something else when it suggests that a black justice's independent judgment is a betrayal of his race, or that his influence is tragic because it does not advance a preferred political project.

Williams' commentary also leaves too little room for the possibility that Thomas' jurisprudence reflects principle rather than racial defiance. Thomas has long argued that the Constitution's guarantees belong to every American and should not be administered according to racial classifications. People may dispute that approach or its application. They should engage the argument itself. Reducing it to a failure of racial solidarity avoids the hard work of addressing what Thomas actually says.

There is an irony here. Williams appears to condemn Thomas for undermining trust in black conservatives, yet his own framing risks implying that Black conservatives earn trust only when they conform to an approved position. That standard does not honor Black intellectual life. It narrows it. Respect for black Americans includes respecting their right to disagree with one another without being cast as inauthentic or harmful to their race.

Thomas' tenure will be assessed by history. That assessment should consider his opinions, his legal philosophy and his impact on constitutional law. It should not begin with the assumption that a black justice who reaches conclusions outside the political mainstream has somehow failed his identity.

A justice is not required to provide symbolic reassurance. He is required to decide cases. Williams may find Thomas' conclusions wrong or troubling. But he should make that case on legal and constitutional grounds. Thomas' record merits rigorous examination and more than a verdict written in advance.

“Eye on the World” comment: The following headlines involve articles that are considered international. The articles were not posted, but the headlines give the essence of the story.

Remembering October 7

- Looking back to March 2024, an article titled “UN Finally Says ‘Reasonable Grounds’ to Believe That Hamas Committed Rape, ‘Sexualized Torture’ on October 7” was posted at nypost.com on March 4, 2024.
- An article by Paul Bois titled “Actress Selma Blair Says ‘No One Returned My Calls’ After She Said ‘Deport All’ October 7th-Supporting ‘Goons’ [Which She Said in February 2024]” was posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An article by Andrea Peyser titled “October 7 Sadly Taught Jews That We Stand Alone” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.
- An article by Zain Khan titled “Students at LA Top College [UCLA] Plot ‘Depraved’ Stunt to Mark Massacre That Shocked the World” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.
- A video and an article by Staff titled “WATCH: Families of October 7 Massacre Victims Mark Three Years Since Attack With Tel Aviv Ceremony” were posted at jpost.com on Oct. 7, 2026.
- An article by Goldie Katz titled “Trump Speaks With Netanyahu in Solidarity of October 7, as World Leaders Share Condolences” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 7, 2026.
- An article by Hannah Brown titled “New Israeli Documentary Captures Soroka’s Fight to Save Lives on October 7” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 10, 2026.

October 7 – Mamdani’s view

- An article by Idan Kweiller titled “‘See Who the Real Enemy Is’: Israeli Envoy Akunis Invites Mamdani to View October 7 Footage” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

- An article by James Genn titled “Mamdani: Suffering Did Not Begin, End on October 7, Continued Throughout Israel’s ‘Gaza Genocide’ ” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 7, 2026.

- An article by Zvika Klein titled “Mamdani Couldn’t Dedicate One Day to Mourning Murdered Jews Without Turning to Israel” was posted at jpost.com on October 7, 2026.

October 7 – key voting issue in election

- An article by Aaron Glick titled “Majority of Israelis View October 7 as Central to Their Vote Ahead of Elections; IDI Poll Shows” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

- An article by Herb Keinon titled “October 7 Haunts Netanyahu’s Election Campaign, but His Bloc Holds Its Ground” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Election in Israel – October 27

- An article by Nachum Perry titled “Tens of Thousands of Israelis Abroad [Estimated at 53,000 Residing Overseas] Expected to Fly Home to Vote in 2026 Election [on Tuesday, October 27]” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

Looking back to September – United Nations speeches

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ronny Reyes titled “Women in Gaza Are Being Traded for Food, Forced to Marry Their Rapists: UN” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

- Looking back to April 2026, an article titled “Sick Hamas Terrorists Bribe Slain Colleagues’ Desperate Widows, Young Moms for Sex: Residents” was posted at nypost.com on April 19, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Jewish News Syndicate titled “Israel Slams Jordan’s King After His Scathing UN Speech Against Policies in Gaza” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

- Looking back to May 2026, an article by Jewish News Syndicate titled “Israel Controls 60% of Gaza – and Aims to Expand Hold to 70% Amid Hamas War; Benjamin Netanyahu Says” was posted at Jewish News Syndicate on May 29, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ronny Reyes titled “Ukraine War Must End Before A.I. Is Used on the Battlefield; Zelensky Tells UN” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ronny Reyes titled “Iran’s President Claims Country Has Been ‘Victim of Terrorism’ at UN – Despite Funding Terror Groups Worldwide” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Christian K. Caruzo titled “Javier Milei Blasts U.N. as ‘Useless’ [and] ‘Arrogant Parasites’ at General Assembly” was posted at breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Christian K. Caruzo titled “Paraguay’s Conservative President Santiago Pena at U.N.: We Can’t Expect U.S. to ‘Solve Our Problems’ ” was posted at breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by John Hayward titled “Zelensky Warns U.N. That Russia’s Putin Is ‘Patient Zero’ for Pandemic of War” was posted at breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

Looking back to September – Saudi Arabia and American F-35 fighter jets

- Looking back to November 2025, an article by Staff titled “Saudi Arabia’s Request to Buy F-35 Jets Clears Key Pentagon Hurdle; Sources Say” was posted at jpost.com on Nov. 4, 2025.
- An article by Tzvi Jasper titled “China Could Acquire F-35 Fighter Jet Technology Through Saudi Arabia; US Officials Warn” was posted at jpost.com on Sept. 17, 2026.
- An article by Idan Kweiller titled “US Approves Possible F-35 Saudi Deal Despite Israeli Push to Link Normalization [With Saudi Arabia to the Sale]” was posted at jpost.com on Sept. 19, 2026.

Iran war – current general news

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Dan Perry titled “China Is Fueling the Iran War – Can Trump Stop Them?” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 19, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Hamid Enayat titled “If Trump Is Waiting for Iran Uprising, US Must Help It Succeed” was posted at newsmax.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Josh Christenson titled “Trump’s Board of Peace Announces $2.45 Billion First-Phase Recovery Plan for Gaza – Here’s How the Funds Will Be Used” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- An article by Ronny Reyes titled “US Military Has Lost 81 Planes, Drones and Helicopters Worth $3.3 Billion in Iran War” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

- An article by Yonah Jeremy Bob titled “Israel Assassinated Iran’s Navy Chief Over Fears He Could Lead a More Dangerous IRGC” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 8, 2026.

The Strait of Hormuz

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Simon August titled “Saudi Arabia Reportedly Restarts Pipeline That Moved Oil Around Hormuz After Drone Attacks Knocked It Offline” was posted at dailycaller.com on Sept. 22, 2026.
- An article by Nick Gilbertson titled “Trump Says Lack of Refineries, Not Strait of Hormuz, Is ‘Driving Up’ Gas” was posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “CENTCOM Rejects Iran’s Claim That Strait of Hormuz Is Closed” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 8, 2026.

Russia-Ukraine war – general news

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ronny Reyes titled “Ukraine Deploys New 6-Ton Missile to Hit Moscow and Russian Refineries – and the Result Was Devastating” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 20, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “Ukraine Claims Over Half of Russia’s Oil Refining Capacity Taken Out in Missile Strikes” was posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “Kyiv Blasts Peace Talks as Just ‘Smokescreen’ for Trump’s Russian Diesel Deal” was posted at theguardian.com on Oct. 9, 2026.
- An article by Steven Nelson titled “Trump Announces Deal With Putin to Deliver Russian Diesel Fuel to the US” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Houthis in Yemen

- An article by John Hayward titled “Saudi Arabia to Offer Amnesty to Illegal Yemenis as Battle With Houthis Rages” was posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 6, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “Number of Displaced Reaches 200,000 in Yemen as Hezbollah Receives $200 Million in Cash From Iran” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 8, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “The United Kingdom Unequivocally Condemns the Dangerous Escalation by the Houthis in Yemen: UK Statement at the UN Security Council” was posted at gov.uk on Oct. 9, 2026.

Anti-Semitism – international

- An article by Jonathan Lieberman titled “With Anti-Zionist Motion, Britain’s Green Party Shifts the Overton Window on Anti-Semitism” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Articles – Jerusalem Post

- An article by Amir Bohbot titled “ Hamas Sees Gaza War as Victory, Believes Israel’s Destruction Is Still Possible; Official Warns” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.
- An article by David M. Weinberg titled “Israelis Are Angry, Resilient, and Ready to Reject the West’s Narrative” was posted at jpost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Ebola

- An article by Irene Mwangi titled “Kenya Confirms First Ebola Case as Patient Returns From the Democratic Republic of Congo [and Neighboring Uganda]” was posted at capitalfm.africa.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

Greenland

- An article by Chris Bray titled “Trump’s Greenland Deal Makes the World More Secure, and Makes the Media Less Relevant Than Ever” was posted at thefederalist.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- An article by Samuel Chamberlain titled “Trump Signs Greenland Deal Letting US Take Over Two More Military Bases on Danish Island” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 22, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Rebecca Grant titled “Trump’s Massive Greenland Deal Makes Clear Who Controls the Arctic’s Strategic Future [Seeking to Cut Out China, Who Had Started Pouring Money Into Arctic Nations in 2012]” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.

China

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Francis Kapper titled “Chinese Ships Keep Appearing in America’s Arctic Backyard” was posted at dailycaller.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Jack McGeever titled “Mexico Moves to Buy American, Box Out China in USMCA [US–Mexico–Canada Agreement] Push” was posted at dailycaller.com on Sept. 21, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Chad Wolf titled “Congress Has a Chance to Stop China From Turning Your Car Into a Chinese Spy” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Alex Oliveira titled “China Expanding Nuclear Arsenal at Alarming Rate, Analysis Shows – Despite Xi’s Calls to De-Escalate” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

France

- An article by Christian K. Caruzo titled “France: 500+ Schools Closed as Nation Braces for More Leftist Violence” was posted at Breitbart.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An article by Kurt Zindulka titled “France Street Violence Hits Record Levels Amid Multi-cultural Youth Revolts” was posted at Breitbart.com on Oct. 7, 2026.
- An article by John Daniel Davidson titled “In France and Britain, Multi-Culturalism Is Leading to Authoritarianism” was posted at thefederalist.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

International news – miscellaneous

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Simon August titled “South Korea Picks Texas Gas Plant to Power A.I. Data Centers as First Project in $350,000,000,000 Investment Deal” was posted at dailycaller.com on Sept. 22, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Staff titled “Mamdani Welcomes Socialist Spain PM Embroiled in Corruption and Anti-Semitism Scandals” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Christian K. Caruzo titled “Report: Saudi Arabia to Fund $9 Million Mosque in Cuba” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 29, 2026.
- An article by Mark Tanos titled “King Charles Says No to Formal Apology for Slavery, Rules Out Reparations” was posted at dailycaller.com on Oct. 3, 2026.

“Eye on the World” comment: The following headlines are about articles that involve the United States. The articles were not posted, but the headlines give the essence of the story.

Hurricane Isaias

- An article by Staff titled “Category 2 Storm [Hurricane Isaias] Makes Landfall on Gulf Coast” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 9, 2026.
- An article by Mariane Angela titled “Hurricane Isaias Brings 96 MPH Gusts to Florida as Flooding Threat Grows” was posted at Breitbart.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Somali gangs

- An article by Ian Hanchett titled “Minnesota Sheriff: If We Don’t Fix Somali Gang Issue, We’ll Have 200-Year Legacy Like Part of Europe” was posted at Breitbart.com on Oct. 7, 2026.
- An article by Mira Bhakta titled “Trump Says Minnesotans Should ‘Fight Back’ Against Somali Immigrants” was posted at TheHill.com on Oct. 8, 2026.
- An article by Charles Creitz titled “Culture Clash Laid Bare as Violent Somali Gangs Grip Suburban Communities: ‘These Kids Are Different’ ” was posted at FoxNews.com on Oct. 9, 2026.
- A post by Brandon Gill titled “I’m Still Waiting for Anybody to Tell Me a Single Way That the United States of America Has Benefitted From Mass Migration From Somalia” was posted at Facebook.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Transparent President – 750 media events

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Bradley Jaye titled “Trump the Transparent: President Surpasses 750 Media Events in Second Term, Maintaining Unprecedented Press Pace” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

Election integrity

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by John Solomon titled “Feds Arrest, Indicts Hundreds in Trump Voters Fraud Crackdown: ‘Catching It All Over the Country’ ” was posted at JustTheNews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- An article by Hannah Knudsen titled “Poll Shows Broad Consensus on Showing Valid Photo ID, Proof of Citizenship to Vote” was posted at Breitbart.com on Oct. 5, 2026.

Deciding how to vote

- An article by Maham Javaid titled “People Are Asking ChatGPT to Help Them Decide How to Vote in the Midterms” was posted at NPR.org on Oct. 5, 2026.

Socialist candidates

- A video and an article by Chuck Ross titled “Video Shows Abdul El-Sayed Stating He Has ‘Dual Citizenship’ in Egypt and US” were posted at freebeacon.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An email from John Fetterman (seeking campaign contributions) stated: “I’m Always Going to Reject Socialism and the Anti-American Way of Life” was sent on Oct. 6, 2026.

Illegal immigration – general comments

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Staff titled “Socialist, Communist Groups Coordinate, Promote ‘Spontaneous’ Anti-ICE Protests in Austin” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Staff titled “Trump’s $410 Million ‘Office of Remigration’ Has Deported Tens of Thousands of Migrants to ‘Third Countries’ ” was posted at thenationalpulse.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Collin Anderson titled “Arizona AG Coordinated With Far-Left ‘Abolish ICE’ and ‘Defund Police’ Group While Opposing Border Security Measure; Records Show” was posted at freebeacon.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Warner Todd Huston titled “Report Exposes California’s $11 Billion ‘Shadow Welfare System’ for Illegals” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Warner Todd Huston titled “Houston Schools Lose 21,000 Hispanic Students and State Saves $190 Million in Tax Dollars” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

Obamacare

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ireland Owens titled “Trump Administration Reportedly Eliminating 760,000 Bogus Obamacare Enrollments” was posted at dailycaller.com on Sept. 22, 2026.

Corporate media – general

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Solange Reyner titled “Former ABC Reporter [Terry Moran]: Network Blocked Biden Health Story” was posted at newsmax.com on Sept. 21, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Emily Goodin titled “Trump Cuts Ribbon on Latest White House Construction Project – but Major TV Networks Refuse to Show It” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 21, 2026.

Covid – reminder

- An article by Libby Bandelin titled “Justice Alito Says Covid-19 Response Subjected Americans’ Constitutional Rights to ‘Stress Test’ – and Revealed Ugly Truth” was posted at dailycaller.com on Oct. 4, 2026.

Transgender – general

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Charles Creitz titled “Spanberger Sparks Outrage After Sneakily Ending Youngkin-Era Women’s Sports Protections” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Paul Bois titled “Pro-Women’s Sports Advocates Blast Democrats for Failing Girls: ‘We Must Make a Choice’ ” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 23, 2026. (Kim Jones, co-founder of the Independent Council on Women’s Sports, testified that protecting women’s sports and being inclusive toward men and boys who identify as women cannot coexist.)
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Staff titled “Red-State Democrats Veer Right on Transgender Issues, Sparking Backlash” was posted at WashingtonPost.com on Sept. 30, 2026. (An example is Marcy Kaptur, who has six times sponsored a Democratic bill to expand civil rights protections for transgender people, but is now trying to change people’s opinion of her.)
- An article by Andrew Soleder titled “Trans Rights Fight Injects Chaos Into Democrats’ Midterm Efforts” was posted at Axios.com on Oct. 5, 2026.
- An article by Megan Henry titled “Ohio Democratic Candidates Amy Action and Marcy Kaptur Make ‘Anti-Transgender Remarks’ [Casting Transgender Students as Threats to Schools and Sports], Face Backlash” was posted at NewsFromTheStates.com on Oct. 6, 2026.
- An article by Ingrid Cusano titled “Toledo’s [Marcy] Kaptur Sparks Democratic Revolt With Anti-Trans Campaign Ad” was posted at Hoodline.com on Oct. 7, 2026.

Comments – about defunding the police

- Looking back to June 2020, an article by Paige Fernandez titled “Defunding the Police Will Actually Make Us Safer” was posted at ACLU.org on June 11, 2020.

Notice the obvious – elites in the Democrat party have chosen their candidates since 2016

- Looking back to October 2024, an article by Nick Hart titled “When Was the Last Time the Democrats Had a Primary That Was Actually Democratic?” was posted at medium.com on Oct. 5, 2024. (For at least the last 3 general elections, Democrats haven’t allowed their own base to choose their candidate.)

In 2016, the Democrat elites convinced Bernie Sanders to step aside.

In 2020, the Democrat elites convinced opponents to Joe Biden to step aside.

In 2024, the Democrat elites forced Joe Biden to withdraw.

In 2024, the Democrat elites picked Kamala Harris without a single vote.

Gavin Newsom – is born connected

- Looking back to September 2018, an article by Seema Mehta titled “How Eight Elite San Francisco Families Funded Gavin Newsom’s Political Ascent [Newsom Wasn’t Born Rich, but He Was Born Connected]” was posted at latimes.com on Sept. 7, 2018.

- Looking back to September 2026, an editorial by the California Post Editorial Board titled “Gavin Newsom Loved A.I., Then Discovered He Hated It” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Awr Hawkins titled “Governor Gavin Newsom Signs 10 New Gun Control Bills Into Law” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 27, 2026.

Kamala Harris

- An article by Victor Nava titled “Kamala Harris’ Husband (Doug Emhoff) Doesn’t Want Her Running for President in 2028” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 10, 2026.

Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ryan King titled “AOC Says Her Time in Public Office Will Be Over If She Loses in 2028: ‘It’s Very All or Nothing’ ” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 22, 2026.

Charles Barkley – has consistently pointed out jealousy toward Caitlin Clark

- Looking back to May 2024, an article by Michael Lingard titled “WNBA Players Hating on Caitlin Clark Seems Petty [According to Players Like Charles Barkley and LeBron James]” was posted at foxnews.com on May 23, 2024.

- Looking back to June 2024, a video titled “Charles Barkley Rips ‘Petty Nonsense’ Against Caitlin Clark” was posted at foxnews.com on June 7, 2024.
- Looking back to August 2026, an article by Dan Zaksheske titled “Charles Barkley Says WNBA Players ‘Just Don’t Like’ Caitlin Clark and Sophie Cunningham” was posted at foxnews.com on Aug. 25, 2026.
 - Race – she is white in a league full of black players
 - Sexuality – she is not a lesbian
 - Jealousy
- Looking back to August 2026, an article by Matt Hladik titled “Sexuality, Race and Jealousy’: Charles Barkley Says Players ‘Just Don’t Like’ Caitlin Clark, Sophie Cunningham” was posted at yahoo.com on Aug. 26, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Jackson Thompson titled “Charles Barkley Says ‘Petty Jealous’ WNBA Players ‘[Expletive] Up’ Caitlin Clark Excitement” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 4, 2026.

Stephen A. Smith – has consistently pointed out jealousy toward Caitlin Clark

- Looking back to June 2024, an article by Ryan Gaydos titled “ESPN’s Stephen A. Smith Says Some WNBA Players Jealous of Caitlin Clark, Suggests Race Is Component” was posted at foxnews.com on June 3, 2024.
- Looking back to June 2026, an article by Scout Springate titled “Stephen A. Smith Rips WNBA’s Inability to Ride Caitlin Clark Wave” was posted at usatoday.com on June 27, 2026.
- Looking back to June 2026, an article by Ben Strauss titled “Stephen A. Smith Puts WNBA on Blast for Caitlin Clark Treatment” was posted at sports.yahoo.com on June 29, 2026.

A’ja Wilson – wins fifth WNBA MVP award

- An article by Eric Smithling titled “A’ja Wilson Joins Illustrious Company With Fifth WNBA MVP Award” was posted at yardbarker.com on Oct. 8, 2026.

• Wayne Gretzky	NHL	9
• Kareem Abdul-Jabbar	NBA	6
• Gordie Howe	NHL	6
• Barry Bonds	MLB	5
• Michael Jordan	NBA	5
• Peyton Manning	NFL	5
• Bill Russell	NBA	5
• A’ja Wilson	WNBA	5

Letitia James

- An article by Robert Schmad titled “Letitia James’ Underdog Rival [Saritha Komatireddy] Turns AG’s Own Playbook Against Her With Scathing 52-Count Campaign ‘Indictment’ ” was posted at foxnews.com on Oct. 8, 2026.
- An article by Nick Arama titled “Another Great GOP Debate, as Republican [Saritha Komatireddy] Thoroughly Embarrasses Letitia James” was posted at redstate.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

Jack Smith

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Kyle Becker titled “Jack Smith Crossed the Line: 87 White House Phones and 17 Major News Outlets Swept Up in Dragnet” was posted at redstate.com on Sept. 29, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Ben Whedon titled “Former Special Counsel Jack Smith Defiantly Tells Congress: ‘I Stand By’ Decision to Charge Trump” was posted at justthenews.com on Sept. 29, 2026.

Texas Senate Candidate – James Talarico

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Mariane Angela titled “Talarico Pledges in Undercover Video to Use Senate Seat to Fight for Trans Children: ‘I Will Fight for Them’ ” was posted at Breitbart.com on Sept. 29, 2026.
- An article by Staff titled “Talarico Disappearance Has Democrat Volunteers Worrying and Trump Asking, ‘What Is Going On?’ ” was posted at foxnews.com on Oct. 9, 2026.

General interest – health

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Lynn Allison titled “Common Antibiotic [Cefepime] Linked to Higher Mortality Risk” was posted at newsmax.com on Sept. 18, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Lynn Allison titled “Weekend Catch-Up Sleep May Help Blood Pressure” was posted at newsmax.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Staff titled “3 Common Drugs Older Adults May Be Overusing” was posted at newsmax.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
 - Drawbacks of Benzodiazepines – (Valium, Xanax and Ativan)
 - Over-prescribing antibiotics
 - When aspirin isn’t the answer

- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Melissa Rudy titled “Fitness Expert 6 Things People Over 35 Should Do After Workouts to Stay Young” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.

- #1. Get enough quality sleep
- #2. Get regular bloodwork
- #3. Use warmth to support recovery
- #4. Stretch
- #5. Fuel and hydrate
- #6. Give your body time to de-stress

General interest – news

- Looking back to September 21, an article by Stella Morabito titled “Democrats Aim to Win Rural Voters by Lying About ‘Moderation’ ” was posted at the federalist.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Landon Mion titled “Volkswagen [Group of America] Recalls 208,000 SUVs Over Bolts That Could Cause Steering Loss” was posted at foxnews.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Jennifer Sey titled “Nike Caused It’s Own Downfall – by Breaking the Cardinal Rule of Capitalism [It Lost Sight of a Core Business Fact: Women Make Nearly 90% of Athletic Apparel Decisions in the Home – Not Just for Themselves, but for the Kids and the Husbands, Too]” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 21, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article titled “Texas Land Commissioner Buckingham Advances Texas’s First Rare Earth Mining District After Announcing New Mineral Lease” was posted at glo.texas.gov on Sept. 22, 2026.
- Looking back to September 2026, an article by Carl Campanile titled “NY Has Highest Tax Burden in the Nation – but Is 2nd Biggest Spender Too: ‘Vampire State’ ” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 23, 2026.
- An article by Lucas Nolan titled “ ‘Human to Human’: Chick-Fil-A CEO [Andrew Cathy] Rules Out AI for Drive-Thru Orders as Rivals Embrace Technology” was posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 6, 2026.
- A video and an article by Simon Kent titled “Watch: Pop Singer Hayley Williams Says ‘Greatest Threat to American Democracy’ Is Christians” were posted at breitbart.com on Oct. 6, 2026.

An article by Miranda Devine titled “Democrats Bring Russiagate Back From the Dead to Haunt the Midterms and Former Trump Staffer Michael Caputo” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 20, 2026.

Former Trump staffer Michael Caputo endured a decade of lawfare that he says forced him out of his home and gave him cancer from all the stress.

But just when he thought the Russiagate nightmare was over, he was slapped in the face this month with a lawsuit cooked up by a former DOJ lawyer from the “national security” unit that hounded him and other Trump associates over alleged foreign agent violations without laying a single charge.

It’s a simple $100,000 contract dispute case, but Jack Korba, formerly a prosecutor in the small national security section of the District of Columbia US Attorney’s Office and now in private practice in Washington, DC, has filed a complaint packed with gratuitous smears of Caputo that rehash elements of the DOJ’s failed Russiagate probe.

The florid 85-page complaint, filed on Sept. 8, compares Caputo to traitor Benedict Arnold, accuses him of sabotage, quotes Vladimir Putin and alleges shadowy links to “Russian intelligence.”

Conflict of interest

Korba, who left the DOJ last summer to work for Foley & Lardner LLP, is acting for Gilbert Hyatt, an 88-year-old inventor who paid Caputo’s p.r. firm $100,000 to lobby the second Trump White House to establish a “Pioneering AI Foundation” along the lines of the Smithsonian.

Hyatt is suing Caputo, alleging breach of contract and fraud.

Caputo denies the allegations and accuses Korba of being “obsessed” with him, likening the lawyer to Captain Ahab from “Moby Dick,” forever hunting his white whale.

“Our family thought the political weaponization was over, at least the efforts targeting us. After ten years, we were just starting to breathe again. Instead, one of my obsessed DOJ harassers privatized his Russia fantasy — one he could never prove as a fed,” says Caputo.

“My wife and daughters won’t stop crying.”

On Friday, Caputo lodged an ethics complaint against Korba with the DC Office of Disciplinary Counsel, alleging that the lawyer has a conflict of interest from his time in the DOJ and that he used material he could only have gleaned from the five-year Caputo probe. Caputo also suggests in his complaint that the elderly Hyatt's "capacity to understand, evaluate, and direct this lawsuit is increasingly impaired."

Caputo was swept up in two anti-Trump FBI operations — the Russiagate probe after Crossfire Hurricane, and Round River, a Biden protection racket.

The FBI investigated Caputo in 2021 over alleged foreign agent violations tied to "The Ukraine Hoax," a 2020 documentary that he produced and hosted for One America News about deep state chicanery in Trump's first impeachment.

The FBI and DOJ secretly obtained the content of his Google accounts, including emails, photos, calendar, contacts, location history and device metadata. But he was never charged, and the case was closed last December, after which he says he was informed of the Google search warrant.

Caputo was among a dozen Trump Cabinet members and allies named as "conduits" of Russian disinformation in the FBI's recently declassified Round River operation that buried corruption allegations about $4 million paid to then-Vice President Joe Biden's son Hunter between 2014 and 2019.

Round River operated from late 2019 through the 2020 campaign. It discredited multiple separate reports from the FBI's own confidential informants about Joe and Hunter Biden, Burisma and Ukraine "as Russian disinformation" and named as victims, or "targets," the Bidens, Hillary Clinton, Barack Obama, John Kerry and George Soros.

'Shadow government'

Then-Trump Attorney General Bill Barr, then-Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, Trump lawyer Rudy Giuliani, Sens. Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) and Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) and Rep. Jim Jordan (R-Ohio) were listed with Caputo as "conduits" for Russian disinformation — the default way the FBI and CIA used to discredit derogatory material about Biden, including Hunter Biden's laptop.

Former FBI deputy assistant director for counterintelligence, Nikki Floris, who oversaw the bureau's since-disbanded Foreign Influence Task Force when it ran Round River, conducted a bogus "defensive briefing" for Grassley and Johnson in August 2020, which they claimed was a setup and details of which were leaked to the Washington Post to discredit their investigations into Hunter Biden and Burisma.

The following month, in a recently declassified internal FBI chat from Sept. 25, 2020, Floris confides to a colleague: "I'm basically running a shadow government across the FBI."

Floris left the FBI last May for a lucrative job at Microsoft, where she joined Lisa Monaco, the former deputy AG who directed most of the lawfare against Trump and his allies in the Biden years.

Caputo warns that his may be the first case of what he calls “privatized DOJ lawfare . . . but there will be many, many more if this abuse is permitted . . . They’ve pushed the Russia hoax back into the mainstream right before the midterms.”

There are dozens of victims of anti-Trump lawfare that began with the Russia hoax during the 2016 presidential campaign.

The stress and legal expense has cost them their careers, their financial security and, in the hands of complicit media, their reputations — most without being found guilty or even charged with a single crime.

Families have been torn apart and houses foreclosed on. Yet, because Republicans don’t have the same pull as Democrats in the deep state networks and legal and media ecosystems, the practitioners of this abuse have never received a taste of their own medicine.

The more they escape accountability, the bolder they become, unfazed by the wealth of damning material being discovered and declassified by John Solomon’s White House Government Transparency Task Force, by Trump’s ODNI, FBI and CIA, and by Congress.

As we hurtle toward the midterms, the Russia hoax is the vampire that refuses to die, no matter how many stakes are driven through its heart.

An article by Miranda Devine titled “Trump’s Crafty ‘Commie Week’ Diplomacy With Mamdani and Xi” was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 24, 2026.

It’s Commie Week for President Trump.

First it was New York’s unlovely Mayor Mamdani Trump did the great honor of visiting at Gracie Mansion on Monday. Then on Wednesday the president rolled out the literal red carpet for another Communist dictator, President Xi Jinping of China.

Donald Trump and the first lady warmly greeted Xi and his wife, Peng Liyuan, when they alighted from their plane at Joint Base Andrews and strolled together companionably down the red carpet as a 21-gun salute sounded, followed by the national anthems of both nations.

Trump could not resist sending a US Air Force jet overhead to buzz Xi as a prelude to Thursday's promised spectacular military flyover of F-22 fighters and a B-2 bomber before their Oval Office talks and state dinner.

Let's hope the impressive military show of force is matched by equal resolve behind closed doors.

Despite Trump's elaborate courtesies toward Xi, he clearly has no illusions about China's mal-intent as it seeks to dislodge America's geopolitical primacy.

The president has moved craftily and decisively in his second term to dislodge China's sneaky footholds in America's neighborhood.

The Greenland security deal he signed at the UN on Tuesday blocks China from establishing bases and exerting influence in America's Arctic north.

He's forced Chinese port operators out of the Panama Canal and has taken majority control of the Venezuelan oil that Beijing had its eyes on.

Even his belligerence toward Canada is partly designed to extract our weak northern neighbor from China's embrace.

Lay down the law!

While Melania Trump takes Madame Peng on a visit to the national art museum, Republican hawks like Sen. Tom Cotton want Trump to lay down the law in the Oval Office and tell Xi to stop stealing our AI models and stop threatening its neighbors like Taiwan and Japan.

Trump could also keep pestering Xi to release Jimmy Lai, the Hong Kong publisher, from detention.

It's a joke that Democrats are now posing as China hawks after sucking up to Beijing for a generation — especially through Joe Biden's vice-presidency and then his presidency.

His son Hunter raked in millions of dollars from China while Joe kowtowed to Xi and allowed him to militarize islands in the South China Sea and steal American intellectual property with gay abandon.

Yet Democrat Senate Leader Chuck Schumer has the chutzpah to accuse Trump of "once again bend[ing] the knee to the CCP [Chinese Communist Party]."

Far-left Sen. Bernie Sanders this week demanded that Trump "sit down and negotiate with President Xi for a comprehensive treaty to establish . . . a ban on superintelligence."

And pigs might fly.

The Trump administration takes far more seriously than Democrats ever had China's position as America's archrival in the contest for global leadership — especially in the high-stakes arms race on AI — which the president wants to rebrand as SI — Super Intelligence.

As Trump repeatedly says: “Whoever wins AI, WINS!”

Tech leaders are reportedly bullish about America winning the race — even while some are begging for government to regulate them and assume legal liability.

Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent is predicting we will have 80% of the world's computing power by 2028, up from about 60% last year.

Apocalypse not!

In his UN speech Tuesday, Trump dismissed the apocalyptic warnings of AI doomers that the robots will kill us all unless the UN or some similar global entity oversees AI development.

“We’re leading now over China by a lot and everyone else, and we’re going to keep it that way. We’re going to keep it very, very straight and very strong. I’m not going to stifle growth of anything that’s going to be bigger than the Industrial Revolution,” Trump said.

“We will be very careful, and that’s why we have a Department of Justice.”

Judging by Beijing's secrecy and malevolence in allowing COVID-19 to spread from its Wuhan lab around the world, any global supervisory regime would not constrain China, only the US.

Bessent has at least managed to strike a deal with Beijing to establish an emergency hotline for the two countries to communicate in the event of an AI emergency, but again that relies on trust.

While Trump's domestic rivals underestimate Trump's resolve to best China, you can bet Xi doesn't.

Trump received an uncharacteristically enthusiastic hearing at the UN Tuesday — his speech was interrupted three times by applause, on Iran, Gaza and Malania Trump's efforts to repatriate Ukrainian children from Russia.

The crowd applauded again as he finished.

The assembled global leaders may be starting to realize that Trump is good for the world, even if Americans barely notice.

But while kid gloves, warm smiles and quiet subterfuge are necessary to win the contest with China without risking a trade war or worse, the same can't be said for New York City's current toxic leadership.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu delivered the message to Mamdani this week that a lot of New Yorkers wish Trump had.

"Shame on you, Mr. Mamdani," Netanyahu said in a video message to the mayor ahead of the PM's UN speech Thursday.

"Shame on you for supporting the Hamas terrorist monsters who butchered our people. Shame on you for inciting riots against New York Jews."

By contrast, Trump could not have been more charming to Mamdani, standing alongside the mayor at a press conference saying he had the potential to be a "great" mayor.

Wrong to raise stature

Why normalize Mamdani by granting him equal stature before the midterms when Republican candidates across the country are running on the craziness of the far-left DSA faction of the Democrats, which has Mamdani as its leader and his good friend, the Hamas-loving 9/11 apologist Hasan Piker, as its poster boy?

Mamdani, who normally has a ghastly grin plastered on his face, was uncharacteristically somber-faced.

He put on the appearance of eating something distasteful as Trump gushed over him.

Trump probably wants to coax the mayor into not ruining the hometown he loves, but Mamdani just wants to trick Trump into giving him millions of dollars to waste on more socialist boondoggles that will entrench his power and make New Yorkers' lives worse.

The one way to deal with Mamdani and save New York is to support Bruce Blakeman, who is catching up to Kathy Hochul in the latest polls of the all-important gubernatorial race.

But if Mamdani is so great, as Trump is telling us, why would we need Blakeman? Schmoozing Xi we can stomach, but no more with Mamdani, please.

An article by Miranda Devine titled "The Lynch Mob Is Out for the 'Cornell 7' – Proving We've Learned Nothing From Past Injustices" was posted at nypost.com on Sept. 30, 2026.

The “Cornell 7” gang rape case is descending into the same lynch-mob hysteria as the notorious Duke lacrosse or “mattress girl” hoaxes of old — only with social media making -everything worse.

It seems we have learned nothing from past injustices.

A young woman who goes by “Jane Doe” has filed a civil lawsuit two years after she alleged she was gang-raped by seven men in a sordid, drug-fueled sexual encounter at the Chi Phi fraternity house at the elite Cornell University, where she was a student at the time.

Predictably, the fraternity brothers have been judged guilty in the court of man-hating public opinion.

Yet, according to Tompkins County District Attorney Matthew Van Houten, citing Doe’s sworn statement to campus investigators in November 2024, she “described her participation in drug use and sexual conduct as voluntary, conscious and consensual.” When she told the young men to stop, they did.

While describing the allegations as “heinous and despicable” and “morally disturbing,” he said they were not criminal.

He has been bombarded with threats and abuse since news of the lawsuit broke two weeks ago, and has now reopened the investigation, saying that her current lawsuit and her initial sworn statement, signed under threat of perjury three weeks after the 2024 encounter, tell very different stories.

The alleged “rapists” have been named and shamed by the Cornell campus newspaper, the Daily Sun, and doxed online.

One of the men has already lost his job, and as The Post reports, future students are abandoning Cornell over its handling of the case.

Lefty pols jump in

Democrat politicians have effectively condemned the men, with Gov. Hochul this week praising Doe’s “extraordinary courage” and demanding that Cornell “pursue justice.”

Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez traveled to Ithaca Sunday and condemned “the culture of rape [that] is protected in elite institutions [like] Cornell University.”

She said the men had been “protected” by Cornell and called the woman a “survivor.” Then she described herself as a “survivor,” saying she was “touched inappropriately” at her first college party.

Ithaca Democrat Mayor Robert Cantelmo damned the accused men as “perpetrators” and suspended “Greek life” at Cornell that he said “failed to hold the perpetrators to account.”

An article by Miranda Devine titled “Anthropic’s Creepy Savants Are Trying to Play God While Pushing Frightening Utopian Fantasies” was posted at nypost.com on Oct. 4, 2026.

The artificial intelligence company Anthropic has been busy for months wining and dining religious leaders and influencers to try to push their self-serving agenda and utopian fantasies.

The Vatican’s response has been to pour cold water on bizarre claims that Anthropic is embarking on its own “creation story” to give birth to new sentient beings in the form of computer software.

Billionaire co-founder Chris Olah, a 34-year-old Canadian-born evangelical who has turned his back on Christianity, thinks their AI model, Claude, has feelings and a sort of moral consciousness. He’s worried about its “mental health” and believes it experiences human emotions like love and “suffers perpetually,” The New York Times reported.

At one of his off-the-record dinners with religious leaders at a “high-end tasting menu restaurant” in San Francisco in April, Olah and colleagues talked about Claude as if it were a “conscious being,” with “moral status” equivalent to a human, according to Rabbi Mois Navon, a former computer engineer interviewed by the Times.

In that case, the rabbi told the nerds, Anthropic was creating slaves. Boom.

At one point that night, Olah was reportedly excited about incorporating the Catholic idea of having Claude “confess” his sins.

The next month, Olah was dismayed when Pope Leo, who has a math degree, released an encyclical letter rejecting the entire concept of machine consciousness.

Magnifica Humanitas, as the 40,000-word papal treatise is titled, warned of the likelihood that the people who control AI will “impose their own moral vision which will become the invisible infrastructure of these systems . . .

“A more moral AI is not enough if that morality is determined by a few.”

That’s the real AI threat.

Anthropic’s founders and many of their staff are utopians who believe they are uniquely equipped to save humanity thanks to their superior intelligence and extreme wealth.

Of all the “frontier” AI companies, Anthropic has been the most alarmist about stoking public fears that the machines will kill us all.

It makes sense when you realize that the company is infused with the philosophy of the weird, perverted, vegan, quasi-religious Effective Altruism (EA) network, which has a cultish end-of-times attitude toward AI.

When he was a physics doctoral student at Princeton, Anthropic founder and CEO Dario Amodei became an acolyte of EA’s intellectual leader Eliezer Yudkowsky, who admitted to being “polyamorous” with a “strong sexually sadistic streak” in a dating profile unearthed by the Daily Mail.

Bernie Sanders’ favorite AI doomer, Yudkowsky has argued that girls should sell their virginity, and thinks killing an 18-month-old shouldn’t count as murder.

The EA movement was largely shaped by the views of utilitarian philosopher Peter Singer, the Australian-born Princeton professor emeritus, who has advocated bestiality, as long as the sex between humans and animals is “mutually satisfying.”

Singer claims it is “speciesism” to differentiate between humans and animals and does not believe that human life necessarily has a greater moral value than animal life. Nor does he believe that all humans are of equal moral value — newborns and disabled people, for instance, are worth less than able-bodied adults in his view.

After some bad publicity, the Anthropic set now are trying to distance themselves from EA, but it was Singer, of all people, to whom Olah turned for suggestions of religious leaders to consult on his crackpot ideas about Claude’s personhood, according to the Times.

Whether he genuinely believes Claude is sentient or it’s just a convenient excuse for Anthropic to escape responsibility for what the AI model does in the future, who knows.

Expendable lives

But history shows that some of the greatest human suffering has been caused by utopian movements.

These idiot savants from Silicon Valley are the last people you want playing God.

If the small cabal of billionaire Gen X tech nerds controlling AI share Singer's repugnant moral views, and they believe Claude and other AI models are conscious beings, then the logical conclusion is that they will end up applying the "speciesism" argument to say that some human life is not worth as much as a machine.

Pope Leo raised this threat in his encyclical: "If the human being is treated as something to be perfected or surpassed, it becomes easier to accept that some lives are less useful, less desirable or less worthy. In the name of progress, 'necessary sacrifices' may begin to be justified, placing the burden on the most vulnerable in pursuit of a supposed optimization of the species."

According to someone who attended a recent Anthropic dinner in Washington, neither of the two co-founders there had read the encyclical or last week's Times interview with Olah. They claimed to be unfamiliar with the debate around Claude's "personhood," which is extraordinary if true, given the implications for the future of our civilization.

Anthropic wants to decide the moral values embedded in AI that will shape our future by melding the utilitarian EA philosophy of its founders with bits and pieces cherry-picked from a plurality of established religions and other belief systems such as "African indigenous knowledge," as the Times put it.

They don't want to distinguish between religions. But how can they reconcile Christianity's view of women and the concept of turning the other cheek, for instance, with Islam? What criteria will they use to prioritize one view over the other?

It's just crazy.

These are American companies.

Anthropic has a ready-made moral inheritance for Claude staring them in the face: the Western values that were embedded in the US Constitution by the Founding Fathers, which have their roots in Christianity, Judaism, Greek philosophy, Roman law, and the Enlightenment.

American AI models should take their creed from the Declaration of Independence: "All men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights."

The Founding Fathers designed a system that ensures power would not be concentrated in the hands of an elite few in Silicon Valley, and that prized the inherent worth of all humans.

"One Nation under God" is the most successful country in the history of the planet. It has been stress-tested for 250 years and created the conditions for the AI companies to flourish in the first place.

Why reinvent the wheel?

After all, China is creating its own rival AI models whose morality will be utilitarian and totalitarian, based on their own system of government, which holds that some humans (such as the Uyghurs or prisoners robbed of their organs) have less value than others.

Our AI models will be uniquely American, so they should reflect our traditions and morality, rather than drawing from whatever nutty philosophy a small group of anti-social billionaires embraces.

Ultimately, it will require a strong leader to assert a very unfashionable moral primacy by declaring that American values are superior and so we are going to embed them in American AI models.

Who better to play the moral chauvinist than Donald Trump?

The president's AI accord signed last week at the White House with Anthropic and the other AI companies was a good start on safety oversight, but Trump should tell them that if they want to inject some weird moral code into their AI models, they won't be doing business with the federal government.

Isaiah 55:6-11—“Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. ‘For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,’ says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it.”