Luke 21:34-36—“But take heed to yourselves, lest your souls be weighed down with self-indulgence, and drunkenness, or the anxieties of this life, and that day come on you suddenly, like a falling trap; for it will come on all dwellers on the face of the whole earth. But beware of slumbering; and every moment pray that you may be fully strengthened to escape from all these coming evils, and to take your stand in the presence of the Son of Man” (Weymouth New Testament).

An article by David Hambling titled “Why Putin Thinks He Can Win in Ukraine Despite Huge Russian Death Toll” was posted at nytopost.com on Aug. 12, 2025. Following are excerpts of the article.

Putin is under pressure to agree to a cease-fire. Few leaders would continue to pursue a war that has cost around a million casualties and where outright victory looks impossible.

But while he might agree to an end to the exchange of drone barrages (which are causing huge damage to Russian oil and gas facilities), the bloody ground war is likely to continue.

While Russia may be suffering a thousand casualties a day, the grim mathematics involved means that Putin can take those losses and see the result as a win – because no amount of human suffering weighs in his calculus.

Russia is advancing, but at a slow rate and huge cost. In June, Russia gained about 190 square miles or less than 0.1% of Ukrainian territory.

As Michael Kofman recently noted after a trip to Ukraine, mass attacks with armored vehicles are vanishingly rare. Pervasive drone surveillance means any movement is spotted miles before it reaches the front line. And a mass of First Person View drones hits any assault group long before it gets within sight of Ukrainian forces.

Instead, attacks are a matter of trying to infiltrate the lightly held Ukrainian lines. Russian forces advance stealthily or rapidly on foot – trying to get through the barrage of FPV drones.

Kaufman notes: “Russian attacks are sometimes in 4-6-man groups, but in many cases have decreased to numerous 2-3-man sections trying to penetrate in between Ukrainian positions. Russian infantry seeks to advance as far as possible past Ukraine's initial line and entrench there. Although many may be lost, some get through and entrench, awaiting reinforcements. Much the same can be said of motorcycle and buggy assaults . . . Most fail, but not all, leading to small tactical advances."

Losses are high and successes rare. But if commanders throw enough troops against a line for long enough, they eventually push it back.

Some reports suggest that the casualties are a point of pride among Russian commanders, who boast about the number of troops they lost to gain a position – "I killed five Storm units to take this village" is a typical attitude, according to Russian bloggers translated by Chris_O.

Casualty rates of 805 or more among assault units are reportedly commonplace, with injured survivors rounded up and forced to join the next wave – even on crutches.

Technical specialists and other troops are drafted into assault units. The entire crew of Russia's only aircraft carrier (The Admiral Kuznetsov) was sent ashore, reorganized as a naval infantry unit, and deployed to the Pokrovsk sector in 2024.

Ukrainian casualties are unknown, but likely very much lighter. Defending forces typically only lose a fraction as many as attackers. And very few Ukrainian soldiers now have contact with the enemy as drones take on more and more of the fighting.

But as long as Russia's war machine gets a supply of fresh bodies, it can continue to advance.

According to the Institute for the Study of War, in 2024, each square mile cost around 150 Russian casualties. By mid-2025, Ukrainian Presidential Office Deputy Head Pavlo Palisa gave a figure of 432 casualties per square mile.

It is expensive territory, but Putin wants to buy it because he can.

Casualties on this scale might be unthinkable to Western nations. But in Russia, few people seem troubled by the scale of losses, as far as they are aware of them.

Samuel Bendett (an expert on the Russian scene and advisor to the CNAS and CSIS think tanks said: "Many people are actually not aware of the nature and scale of casualties. And the official propaganda and all manner of social media tools (such as pro-Kremlin Telegram channels) state that sacrifices are necessary."

Russia takes great pride in the many giant cemeteries honoring the over 20 million Soviet dead lost in WW-II, known as the Great Patriotic War.

War in Russia is all about sacrifice for the Motherland – the individual dying and achieving glory for the greater good. Putin made this exact point in a televised meeting with the mother of a dead soldier in 2022.

Putin told the mother: “Some people die in road accidents, others from alcohol – when they die, it’s unclear how. But your son lived, do you understand? He fulfilled his purpose.”

- One of the main reasons there is no public outcry is that the men dying are not young conscripts (known as “Mobiks”) but contract soldiers (“Kontraktniki”) who sign up voluntarily for a fixed duration.
- The Mobiks (perhaps 25% of the army) are kept well back.
- Kontraktniki go to the front.
- The amounts of money on offer are (to Russians) staggering.
- One region offers a million rubles (about $12,000), while the national government adds another 400,000 (about $5,000) to new soldiers.

Signing on the army is like winning a game show – you get several years’ salary in one lump and are seen as a sort of patriotic hero. And if the recruit is killed, their families get a lavish payout, at least in theory.

Recruits typically come from deprived areas. As Russia’s economy disintegrates in slow motion, the bonanza offered by the army looks increasingly appealing. Because Russia is not seeking high quality troops, they will take anyone. An RBC report from the city of Mordovia describes how the recruiters visit homeless shelters looking for recruits – regardless of their mental condition or whether they are drug addicts or alcoholics. “People who show at least minimal interest are immediately offered to sign a contract for military service.”

In the early years of the war, Russia had thousands of convicts who were recruited directly from prisons under a special program. They and mercenaries like the Wagner group both took disproportionate casualties because they were expendable without affecting public opinion.

While these source have dried up, Russia can now also count on North Korean troops – who again are thrown into the most intense combat and suffer a high rate of casualties.

But most of those that are being fed into the meat grinder are Kontraktniki, and Russia is recruiting them (and losing them) at a rate of around 30,000 a month.

A country of 140 million can sustain losses at this rate for a considerable period. And as long as they are seen as patriotic volunteers dying for a cause (“fulfilling their purpose” as Putin has it), there is no public outcry.

From Putin’s point of view, this slow, grinding advance is a winning strategy. He is gaining territory and counting on Ukraine facing a political crisis in the coming months.

If a future cease-fire freezes the existing situation on the ground, every day of fighting is a day of progress.

Several things could change this – accelerating economic collapse, more military aid to Ukraine, or a successful Ukrainian offensive. Without those, expect the bloodshed to continue.

An article by Victor Davis Hanson titled “Who’s Been Bury Destroying Democracy?” was posted at townhall.com on Aug. 15, 2025. Following is the article.

“Destroying democracy” – the latest theme of the left – can be defined in many different ways.

How about attempting to destroy constitutional, ancient and hallowed institutions simply to suit short-term political gains?

- Who in 2020, and now once again, has boasted about packing the 156-year-old, nine-justice Supreme Court?

- Who talks frequently about destroying the 187-year-old Senate filibuster – though only when they hold a Senate majority?
- Who wants to bring in an insolvent left-wing Puerto Rico and redefine the 235-year-old District of Columbia – by altering the Constitution – as two new states solely to obtain four additional liberal senators?
- Who is trying to destroy the constitutionally mandated 235-year-old Electoral College by circumventing it with the surrogate “National Popular Vote Interstate Compact?”
- Does destroying democracy also entail weaponizing federal bureaucracies, turning them into rogue partisan arms of a president?
- Who ordered the CIA to concoct bogus charges of “collusion” to sabotage Donald Trump’s 2016 campaign, the 2016-2017 transition and the first 22 months of Trump’s first term?
- Who prompted a cabal of “51 former intelligence officials” to lie to the American people on the eve of the last debate of the 2020 election that the FBI-authenticated Hunter Biden laptop was instead the work of a “Russian intelligence operation”?
- Who ordered the FBI to connive and partner with social-media conglomerates to censor accurate news deemed unhelpful to the 2020 Biden campaign?
- Who pulled off the greatest presidential coup in history by using surrogates in the shadows to run the cognitively debilitated Biden presidency, then by fiat canceled his reelection effort – and finally anointed as his replacement the new nominee Kamala Harris, who had never won a single primary delegate?
- Who ordered FBI SWAT teams to invade the home of a former president because of a classification dispute over 102 files out of some 13,000 stored there?
- Who tried to remove an ex-president and leader of his party from at least 25 state ballots to deprive millions of Americans of the opportunity to vote for or against him?
- Who coordinated four local, state and federal prosecutors to destroy a former and future president by charging him with fantasy crimes that were never before, and will never again be, lodged against anyone else?
- Who appointed a federal prosecutor to go after the ex-president, who arranged for a high-ranking Justice Department official to step down to join a New York prosecutor’s efforts to destroy an ex-president, and who met in the White House with a Georgia county prosecutor seeking to destroy an ex-president – all on the same day – a mere 72 hours after Trump announced his 2024 reelection bid?

- Who but the current Democrats have ever impeached a president twice?
- Has any party ever tried an ex-president in the Senate when he was out of office and mere private citizen?
- When have there ever been two near-miss assassination attempts on a major-party presidential candidate during a single presidential campaign?
- Who destroyed the southern border and broke federal law to allow in, without criminal or health background audits, some 10-12 million illegal aliens?
- Who created 600 “sanctuary jurisdictions” for the sole purpose of nullifying federal immigration law, in the eerie spirit of the renegade old Confederacy?
- Who allowed tens of thousands of rioters, arsonists and violent protester over four months in 2020 to destroy more than $2 billion in property, kill some 35 people, injure 1,500 police officers and torch a federal courthouse, a police precinct, and a historic church – all with defacto legal impunity?
- How do the purported destroyers of democracy find themselves winning 60-70 percent approval on most of the key issues of our times, while the supposed saviors of democracy are on the losing side of popular opinion?
- How does a president “destroy democracy” by his party winning the White House by both the popular and Electoral College vote, winning majorities in both the Senate and House by popular votes and enjoying a 6-3 edge in the Supreme Court through judges appointed by popularly elected presidents?

So, what is behind these absurd charges?

There are three catalysts.

- One—the new anguished elitist Democratic Party alienated the middle classes through its Jacobin agenda and therefore lost the Congress, the presidency and the Supreme Court – and now has no federal political power.
- Two—the Democratic Party is polling at record lows and yet remains hell-bent on alienating the traditional source of its power – minorities, youth and Independents.
- Three—Democrats cannot find any issues that the people support, nor any leaders to convince the people to embrace them.

It is no surprise that the panicked Democrats bark at the shadows – given that they know their revolutionary, neosocialist agenda is destroying them. And yet, like all addicts, they choose destruction over abandoning their self-destructive fixations.

An article by Matt Vespa titled “The Ratio Heard Around the World: Why Pelosi Got Obliterated Trying to Attack Trump Over DC Takeover” was posted at townhall.com on Aug. 12, 2025. Following are excerpts of the article.

Rep. Nancy Pelosi (D-California) was going to be a good soldier and use January 6 to attack President Trump over his federalization of Washington, D.C. The police are under his administration’s control, with the National Guard being deployed later. This public safety initiative aims to address the increasing crime in the capital.

Pelosi said: “Donald Trump delayed deploying the National Guard on January 6 when our Capitol was under violent attack and lives were at stake. Now, he’s activating the DC Guard to distract from his incompetent mishandling of tariffs, health care, education and immigration – just to name a few blunders.”

Lady, you’re on tape admitting that you botched the National Guard deployment, but the ratio came when Steven Sund (the former chief of the Capitol Police) weighed in.

Steven Sund wrote: “Ma’am, it is long past time to be honest with the American people. On January 3, I requested National Guard assistance, but your Sergeant at Arms denied it. Under federal law (2 U.S.C. 1970), I was prohibited from calling them in without specific approval. That same day, Carol Corbin at the Pentagon offered National Guard support, but I was forced to decline because I lacked the legal authority. On January 6, while the Capitol was under attack and despite my repeated calls, your Sergeant at Arms again denied my urgent requests for over 70 agonizing minutes, “running it up the chain” for your approval. When I needed assistance, it was denied. Yet when it suited you, you ordered fencing topped with concertina wire and surrounded the Capitol with thousands of armed National Guard troops.”

An article by Olivia Salamone titled “The Secret Ways Disney World Keeps Mosquitoes Out of Its Humid Orlando Theme Park” was posted at dailymail.co.uk on Aug. 13, 2025. Following are excerpts of the article.

When Walt Disney was designing Disney World, he hired an actual entomologist – a bug expert.

His job? Figure out how to keep mosquitoes away without ruining the experience for guests. And it worked.

Here are the three key strategies.

1. Disney doesn't let water sit still. No standing puddles. Everything drains fast. Fountains flow constantly. Even decorative moats have circulation. No still water means no mosquito breeding grounds.
2. The staff lightly sprays a garlic-based repellent around the parks. You don't smell it, but mosquitoes hate it. It's non-toxic. Safe for guests. But enough to keep bugs away.
3. Disney relies on natural predators like dragonflies, birds and even bats that come out at night. Disney basically created a little ecosystem where mosquitoes lose every time. And the wildest part? It's all designed to be invisible. Just like the trash tunnels and the background music, the bug control blends into the magic.

Isaiah 55:6-11—"Seek you the Lord while He may be found, call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy on him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. 'For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways,' says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts. For as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven, and do not return there, but water the earth, and make it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall My word by that goes forth from My mouth; it shall not return to Me void, but it shall accomplish what I please, and it shall prosper in the thing for which I sent it."
